THE FIRST AND ONLY

Faculty

M. Gatewood

The purpose of the Art Department is to present to the student an opportunity to develop an appreciation of good art and some skills in handicrafts.

The courses give future teachers a study of materials and techniques which can be of use in art activities in the classroom.

ART AND MUSIC

H. Woodruff

The Music Department gives an opportunity for students who enjoy singing to gain basic training in the principals of voice production and choral participation in the chorus. The Chorus makes several public appearances during the year including a Christmas program for students and faculty. Further study in individual voice training is also offered.

PHILOSOPHY AND RELIGION

The curriculum of the Department of Philosophy and Religion is designed to introduce to the college student the role which philosophy and religion have played in Western civilization. The aims of the curriculum are: (1) To confront the student with the philosophic and religious ideas of our cultural heritage and the way in which these philosophic and religious ideas developed and took hold in the course of a long history. (2) To provide breadth as well as depth in the field and at the same time to meet the vital student needs at the college level. (3) To encourage the college student to develop a philosophy of his consistent with the best scholarship in all fields of knowledge.

WBH Corkey

Loy H. Witherspoon

The Department of Education, within the framework of the liberal arts and science curricula, prepares elementary and secondary school teachers. Teacher Education is conceived as a cooperative enterprise of the entire faculty. The program is designed so that the prospective elementary and secondary teacher can complete the professional sequence in teacher education and at the same time meet the requirements for the degree of Bachelor of Arts.

Courses offered in the teacher education program at Charlotte College may be taken for undergraduate credit and may also be applied toward a teaching certificate or certificate renewal.

The Department of English provides all freshmen and sophomores with instruction in composition, current English usage, and English and some other literature. Majors continue in a curriculum which allows concentration in a chronological field or a type, but likewise requires a desirable spread. Majors, working toward an elementary teachers certificate pursue a specially adapted course which is unusually rich in subject matter.

The Mathematics Department offers work leading to the A.B. and B.S. degrees in mathematics, with a view to training future mathematicians for government and industry, and for further study in graduate schools. Persons are also trained to be teachers of mathematics at all levels.

In addition to the work offered for a major in mathematics, the department offers courses needed by students studying engineering, the sciences, business, and social sciences. Special courses have been added to the curriculum to serve the needs of such students. In particular, majors in economics and business administration, sociology, and psychology are now required to take six semester hours of probability and statistics, in addition to the six semester hours of mathematics required of all students.

In the six semester hours of mathematics required of all students for graduation, the department seeks to provide all of the students at Charlotte College with genuine mathematical experiences, without which no education can be complete in the present age.

The Department of History and Political Science offers course work and a Bachelor of Arts Degree in each of the two disciplines. Students who major in Political Science usually are considering a career in law, politics, or government service, while those majoring in History are inclined to consider elementary, secondary, and college teaching, as well as law, the ministry, journalism, and careers in the business world.

The aims of the Foreign Language Department are multiple. Its programs of courses are planned to help the student to understand, to speak, and to write the foreign language he is learning; to acquaint him with the physical and economic geography of the country whose language he learns; to teach him the history, the literature, and the civilization of that country; to acquaint the student with the traditions, the customs, the characteristic traits and the social life of its people; to give the student a general knowledge of the contributions of that foreign country in the fields of arts and sciences; and finally, to help the student gradually acquire a sound and unbiased understanding of the people whose language he is learning.

CHEMISTRY

S. L. Burson, Jr.

Training professional chemists is the primary purpose of the Department of Chemistry. Students demonstrating superior achievement will be encouraged to seek admission to graduate schools for further study and research. Entirely consistent with the primary objective is our commitment to offer a freshman chemistry course which gives liberal arts students experience in applying the scientific method to some elementary scientific problems, and to impart an appreciation for the strength and limitations of the scientific method. The department also renders service to related disciplines such as physics, biology, engineering, and nursing. The needs of these disciplines are considered in the planning of the basic sequence of courses.

BIOLOGY

Carolyn H. Hampton

James F. Matthews

Dorothy Kirby

Herbert Hechenbleikner

The purpose of the Biology Department is to provide the student with a knowledge of some of the fundamental laws of science, to develop an understanding of the scientific methods of acquiring and organizing knowledge; and of the relationship between the different branches of science. It also gives some conception of the function of science in the development of the modern world.

Dorothy Dunn

The Department of Economics and Business Administration offers two separate courses of study in Business Administration. The first is an A.B. Degree program for students who are interested in a broad education for business, one which will afford them the background necessary to pursue careers in management. The second is a program in Terminal Business Administration for students who seek a special skill for a specific entry position in business—mainly in the area of secretarial services.

GEOLOGY AND GEOGRAPHY

The Geography and Geology Departments offer courses in the study of the history of the earth. These courses deal with the description of land, sea, air, and the distribution of plant and animal life, including man and his industries.

C. H. Gibbs

PHYSICS

The Physics department presents to the student a study in the science that deals with matter and energy, and their interactions in the fields of mechanics, heat, sound, electricity, light, atomic structure, etc. The subject enables the students to have a better understanding in the physical properties and composition of nature.

ENGINEERING

The Engineering program at Charlotte College offers a four-year degree in Engineering. The department covers three areas of engineering, Mechanical, Electrical, and Civil. They also offer introductory courses for students who do not wish to major in Engineering.

PSYCHOLOGY AND SOCIOLOGY

Howard Harlan

The aim of the Department of Psychology, here at Charlotte College, is to introduce the student into the past and present view of man's and animal's behavior as obtained by the method of scientific investigation. In addition, for those students who wish to major in psychology, the members of the Department of Psychology will offer courses aiming to develop in the student a broad and comprehensive view of psychology.

The college library building, completed in the summer of 1963, has a capacity of over 130,000 volumes and a seating capacity of 1,400 students. An open shelf collection of around 36,000 volumes is shelved on the first floor. Approximately 425 magazines and newspapers are displayed in the periodical area. This area is appropriately furnished for leisurely reading and browsing.

Students as well as faculty members are urged to make the Library their own through special requests and helpful suggestions regarding ways in which the librarians can best serve their needs.

Dedication

"Doctor Bonnie"

An unselfish interest in the quality education of her students and a zeal to expand their opportunities to include a wider horizon of economic and social choices,

An attitude of sincere dedication to the task of developing a University in the South Piedmont area of our state, where the need for state-supported higher education has continuously exceeded the availability of that education,

An ability to secure public and private support for the development of Charlotte College toward its unrealized potentialities,

The embodiment of a hope that a great future awaits our college as it assumes a vital role in the community of Charlotte as well as in the entire state,

The pride of a student body that feels that she has contributed significantly to the betterment of each individual's ability to enjoy a more successful and more meaningful life,
